To whom it may concern,

I am a member of the Editorial Board of the Journal of Telecommunications System & Management.

I would like to recommend and encourage the support and publication of scientific material in this journal. The journal is a very valuable periodical that fill the gap between efficient and optimal management and telecommunication systems. In effect, the development of telecommunication system requires the evolution of advanced management systems capable of shooting up the telecommunication network and services capabilities.

In addition to the journal scope falling into this line, the journal takes the advantages offered by the OMICS Publishing Group, which provides digital online access benefiting from the latest technology advantages such as immediate access audio version-enhanced features, user friendly/feasible website-translation of published papers to more than fifty languages, and the possibilities offered by sharing research making use of social networking capabilities such as Face book, Twitter, Linked in , RSS Feeds, etc.

I would like to finish acknowledging the editorial board members and journal staff work that have been working very hard for the journal to establish its high professional standing and there by recommending this journal to be indexed in indexing platforms.

Sincerely yours,

Pablo Cortés
